“ Grandma Bea was the best grandma ever. She worked hard her whole life and told me stories of living through the Great Depression that would make this current generation stop and listen and be happy they have it as good as they do. She was a devoted wife and mother and grandmother and great grandmother. If she said she was going to do something she did it. She was a great example of a loving and caring Christian woman and family meant life to her. She always said "blood is thicker than water." She always had good advice and would give her advice to young people, especially young married people who might be having a hard time. I miss grandma Bea and grandpa Harvey very much and loved being able to grow up near them and missed them when I moved away as an adult. I know they are both in a better place now in heaven and one day I will see them again.

I love you grandma Bea.
