"Jo" (aka, Mom - though I would never call her that in life since I felt it would disrespect her) was an angel among women, seldom recognized in life for her value. She was the "glue" in the home and among the family.

I miss you everyday - and I don't think you would have felt disrespected if I had called you Mom. You are the best woman I have ever known.

“ I miss your "Herman" cake, toasted warm again in the morning when we would sit and have a kahlua coffee and herman cake. Those are warm and missed moment, Jo. Someone in your family took ownership of your facebook page and blocked those of us who love you from posting things like this. I have some photos to share with everyone and will load them up this evening. Your granddaughter is going to dress up as a ghost nun this halloween. You would laugh seeing her. I just realized you only have one granddaughter. :O She misses you terribly.
