Ryan was good-hearted and fun to be around. He was a man of few words, but he could always put a smile on your face. He left us too soon and will be greatly missed.

“ It's Christmas today and just have you on my mind. We don't say your name around here a lot because it still hurts. But we think about you every single day. I hope you see what a cute little man Joseph has turned out to be. Thank you for blessing us with that boy. We love him so so much. Love you Ryan. Merry Christmas...

“ *My heart is broken for Ryan and his family. There is nothing more devastating than to lose a child, especially like this. It is hard to do, but try to remember all of the happy times spent with him." To live in hearts we leave behind
Is not to die."
Even at his darkest, he is loved beyond measure. Even at his darkest, he has made so many happy. I don't know why, but it seems that sometime the sweetest of souls carry the burdens of this world the heaviest. I lost a brother this way when he was 18. He looked a lot like Ryan. After almost 6 years, I miss him more than ever, but I have to find comfort in the fact that he no longer has to suffer and that he is no longer tortured by this life and by himself. I found a lot of comfort in the song "Home" by Foo Fighters. As silly as that may sound, it gave me great comfort. My hopes for Ryan is that he is blanketed in peace and that his spirit and mind are finally still. Ryan, please know that you are too well loved to EVER be forgotten.*

“ Ryan you were such a great kid that always had a smile on your face. You were taken way to young, but the lord had different plans for you then what you had for yourself here on earth. We truly miss you and love you and you will remain in our thoughts every passing day. Please watch over your mom and the other family now that you are their guardian angel. We love and miss you!
