“ I was a 16 year old boy working my first job at mcdonalds in 2005 when I met Charolett. She trained me and was always very patient, kind, and always smiling. She was always my favorite person to work with. Though we both got different jobs, she never forgot me, and I never forgot her. She would always stop and say hi to me wherever we saw each other. She taught me many life lessons, not just how to work the grill at McDonalds. She will always hold a special place in my heart, and will forever be missed.
