“ Sorry that I lost touch with your family hommie. It was important for me to start thinking straighter. This bass I bought from you when I had the thousands your drummer gave me to buy my old Mapexs is doing well. It cost me about as much as I gave you for it to restore it. I got it completely rewired and I got the massive crack in the headstock glued. Ive been trying to get Paul to commit to coming a playing with my friend and I on bass. This bass is the only memory I have of you. The vhs tape I had of us playing is gone. Its probably at my Parents. I was going to ask Paul if he had in photos of us together back when we were in a band. I'd like to have one. Man from that time of my life you and Quinton are gone. Evan was very inspirational to me. The music and art he introduced me to fascinated me. It was fun Evan. I still remember when I was 15 and just had my permit and you were my of age driver and we would drive around for hours with you basically just being someone of age to coach me through it. But we got stuff done while I was learning to drive. We practiced as a band like every night that Summer. It was a pleasure man. Im sorry I didnt come to the service but it all happened so quickly from my perspective. One of the biggest regrets I have of being a young adult was loosing touch with your family.

“ My deepest sympathy goes out to the Chadwick family at your time of sorrow. I met Evan when he arrived to work for Riverwind almost ten years ago. Evan and I quickly became friends, we shared a kindered spirit of sorts. We both had strong convictions and beliefs that we shared, I worked with Evan for about five years and feel very lucky to have spent that time with him. He was family to me by the end of that five years, like a son or little brother and I will miss him terribly and feel like that world has lost some of its luster because he is not here anymore. My heart goes out to Erica, Emmy and Ella and hope that through your family's love, hope and faith you find the strength you need to have at this sorrowful time. To Clint, I have nothing but absolute respect for you sir, you and your wife did a wonderful job instilling integrity, loyalty and morals in your son and I know he loved his family deeply. God Bless your family...

“ Evan was a loving father and husband, he was married to my niece, Erica. He always had a big smile and gave the best hugs. I will miss his photos that he would post on-line of the love of his life, his two daughters. He always treated everyone with respect and love. He will be missed greatly by our family in Paoli.

“ I want to send my deepest sympathy to the Chadwick family. My heart breaks when I think about he and Erica's girls Emmy and Ella growing up not getting to know their wonderful, colorful and passionate Daddy. I will never forget Evan as he and I were exactly like family and as we had talked about ,kindered spirits in that we both have strong convictions and common beliefs that we shared right from the start. I have tremendous respect for all of the Chadwick family and feel blessed to have been able to spend the time I did with Evan and will always be eternally grateful for that. My thoughts and prayers are with you all at this most difficult time. God bless and comfort your family.

Respectfully,

Lisa Wolf and family.

“Evan, was kind and caring young man about a year younger than my oldest daughter. When I told her we had lost him, she told me that even though she did not know Evan personally, he must have been a really good guy because he had messaged he while he worked for me to ask about things I liked because he wanted to buy a gift for me and he wanted to get something I liked. I told her that was Evan, his sweet nature and his charm. Made me smile and sad at the same time. I will never forget when I went to the hospital and had to have surgery. He drove all the way to Ada to bring me a beautiful card signed by all my coworkers and flowers to the hospital, this was when we had offices at WinStar and he lived at Pauls Valley, not a short trip and not easy for him. He made everyone feel loved and appreciated. He loved his family, all of you meant the world to him, when we talked he spoke of little else. Those baby girls were his pride and joy. He loved life and though he had been dealt some pretty rough challenges, he persevered He will be dearly missed by his family, friends and colleges but he's riding high on the wings of angels and we will see him again someday! May God bless and give peace and comfort to everyone who loved him.

“ So many good times I had with him throughout the time I knew him where to begin. Going to lunch at Mcdonalds for his so called comfort food a double cheeseburger seemed to do the trick for him and just shooting the breeze was always a good time. Evan got me hooked on buying football cards and basketball cards on payday which became a normal routine, and even bring the collections from time to time and trading them for some of our favorite players seemed a little childish then but man it always seemed to help us both out when we were having a bad week with work. I remember when we went to our office culture day and he said im taking you down first big guy, i got the ball he dropped his sticks i was running full force and collided with him he stopped me and i rolled across the ground we had a good laugh, he came to me after that and said wow i stopped you but i am going to need to go to a chiropractor and get fixed after that hit lol. The guy who got me hooked on fantasy football and basketball and even gave me my nickname the ATM since i was always willing to give out money lol. Im glad i got to meet you and glad to have called you a friend i will miss you buddy thanks for all the good memories and listening to me ramble on all those times we would be just hanging out during those few breaks you got. “ I had the privilege of working with Evan and Erica at Riverwind Casino. Evan always had a smile on his face and a kind word to share. He was always professional and took his job seriously and did it well. I remember while we were working our shift on a busy concert evening. Someone had found a penny outside while smoking, picked it up and handed it to Evan. A few minutes later he was in the vault with a Security escort and that penny. He and I had a few laughs about him escorting that penny to the vault. He would always say, I was just doing my job. He was truly a great man.

My thoughts and prayers go out to his family.

“ Evan, my musical brother, was a part of me for a long time. We grew together musically, as well as a great friendship. He was the most generous and caring best friend you could have. We played and wrote alot of great music together for a long time. Alot of great shows. He was the Bass Man. We stayed in touch but I just wish we could have jammed again. We talked about getting together a few months ago and try to do some jamming but plans didnt work out. Its time to get out the ol vhs tapes of a couple shows ive had and relive them days. You will be missed my brother.
