“ JW had countless family and friends that definitely loved him. I remember as a kid going to visit him and Ruth with grandparents Dave & Edna Jones. We used to sit on the back porch playing dominoes for hours and hours. This is where I honed my skills over the years. Now, I can't get anyone to play with me because these gentlemen thought me everything I now. The fishing trips and definitely JW gardening was his passion. I tell you what the man could definitely grow some of the best vegetables I have ever had. When it came to family and his friends that was everything to him. Just to sit on the front porch and talk for hours about life in general. So much knowledge and wisdom he would share. He will be definitely missed and loved. RIP JW the Lord definitely gained another Angel.
