“ At the start of my 7th grade year I started talking to malakye I didn't really know him that well at first but I started talking to him and he became one of my best friends through 7th grade we almost fought once but it was for a good reason and we became freinds again when I found out he passed away I got a notification on my phone saying 2 people passed away in a car crash by wynnewood I didn't think much of it and went on with my day and found out 3 days later because I was on the phone with my mom and she asked me if I knew anyone named malakye and I started to get scared and I held it together for a little bit and told my dad and started crying and he was one of my best friends and I will always remember him.

“ I remember when I came into 7th grade the teachers said I was a bad kid, so I didnt think any of the 8th graders would like me. When I walked into art and sat at my table and malakye walked over to me and we talked I just couldn't help but laugh. We would talk every day to the point that in the first 3 months of art he was like a brother to me, not by blood but by heart. When I woke up June 11th and my mom asked me do I know malakye and I asked why and she told me he was dead. I sat there and cried and I just couldn't believe it. He was such a good kid and I can't believe he's gone. I'm gonna miss you everyday malakye. Fly high in the sky.

“ To Destiny and all my family & all love ones of Kye, who are enduring the pain & suffering from unforeseen circumstances of Kye’s transition from this side; Please remember through all the pain, & through all the weary nights, lean NOT on your own understanding, lean and depend on our Heavenly Father for strength, and peace pass all understanding in Jesus mighty name. Destiny, I’m so sorry for your pain & sorrow; We are praying day & night that God continues to gives the strength and comfort that only He can give, that’s the exact strength and comfort that He has already been touching you with to be able to even get out of bed to face these pass few days. Continued prayers for you and all of our family. I Love U ☐
