“ I have known Mark for years. We had a common joke, that he would tell anyone. He always said that he was afraid of me, because I was the only woman in town that could whip him. Now we both knew better than that, but it was our shared joke and we always went along with it. I am sad to hear about his passing. I do know one thing for sure about this man. His love for his daughter. He thought that she is something special and always bragged on her. He wanted the very best for her. He is proud of her. He had a wonderful sense of humor and would share it most of the time.

I called him "Dancin Hanson" as a pet name. To me he was not Mark, but Dancin. I hope he is truly dancing now.
