“ Losing your Mother is especially difficult because throughout your entire life you have relied on her to help you through the journey of life. Now you must learn to continue on without her for she is gone forever from this life. She has gone on to her reward in heaven with God and her loved ones to spend eternity. Celebrate her life and never forget the fond memories of the past you will always have of the time you spent with her.

“ Jennifer, Pattye, and Family - I was saddened to hear about the loss of Granny. She was near and dear to my heart as well spending so much time around her growing up. I know the last few years had been hard on her and I'm glad she's pain free and reunited with Papa and Brenda. What a reunion that must have been! I pray for understanding and comfort for you all in the days to come. I love you like you are my own family. God Bless.

“ What can I say, I miss her so much but I know she is now free of pain. You know how I feel about her. She was like a mother to me. She was so loving, so gentle, she was everything I needed. I think she may have knew something that we didn't. The last time I saw her was on the third just after her birthday. When I was telling her goodbye, "I said I'll be back and you better be here." She said, "I'll be right here, if the Lord doesn't call me home." To her family, I love you, you are as good as she was.
