Mary was attached to her family, and loved sending cards for birthdays and Christmas. We looked forward to receiving birthday cards each year She would show up for a visit on any special day to celebrate with family. She was very attentive to her mother throughout the years and always ready to help any sibling that was in need whether it was monetary or just needing a shoulder to cry on. Mary spent many years with Howard, who took such great care of her when she became ill and could not do for herself anymore.
