“ Oh how my heart sank today...and yet at the same time, it rejoiced knowing that Bill will be teaching so many other green horns like I was, and he will be sharing his loving soul with everyone in heaven. I met Bill and Bert back in 2005, when I moved from WV to Oklahoma to become a 'hand' on a nearby ranch...I can still remember the first time I saw him...riding one horse and ponying a green horse...He rode and the mile sections so often, and I was intrigued with how he was teaching the green horse...so I finally stopped him and introduced myself...we talked for a good 30 minutes all about horses...he then invited me to his home to meet his beautiful wife...A day I will never ever forget, our conversations started out with our love of not only horses, but all animals, and then, I remember, feeling so at home with both of them, that I was able to open up to them, talk about how much I was missing my children, and how I was so uncertain of my future, and how I didn't understand why people just couldn't love one another...We all three prayed together that day, and I shed several tears, and these two amazing folks comforted me, (I didn't know anyone here when I moved here)...Needless to say, Bill and I would ride together on occasion, and when I came across difficult times, they were there for me, like a set of loving parents teaching and comforting me...Bert, if you read this, please know that I had no idea of his passing until just a few moments ago...I will be out to see you very soon...And Bill, I promise to always pass on the knowledge that you instilled within me, to all those that will listen...and share that same kind of love with those that are accepting of it. You will always be loved!
